Tribesman

It is just a cluster of red brick buildings in the midst of unsettling construction. From the Corinthian columns of Provine to the rotunda of the new men's dorm, Mississippi College is dedicated to building not only a better campus but also a better future for her students.

"Where there is no vision, the people perish."

Dedication

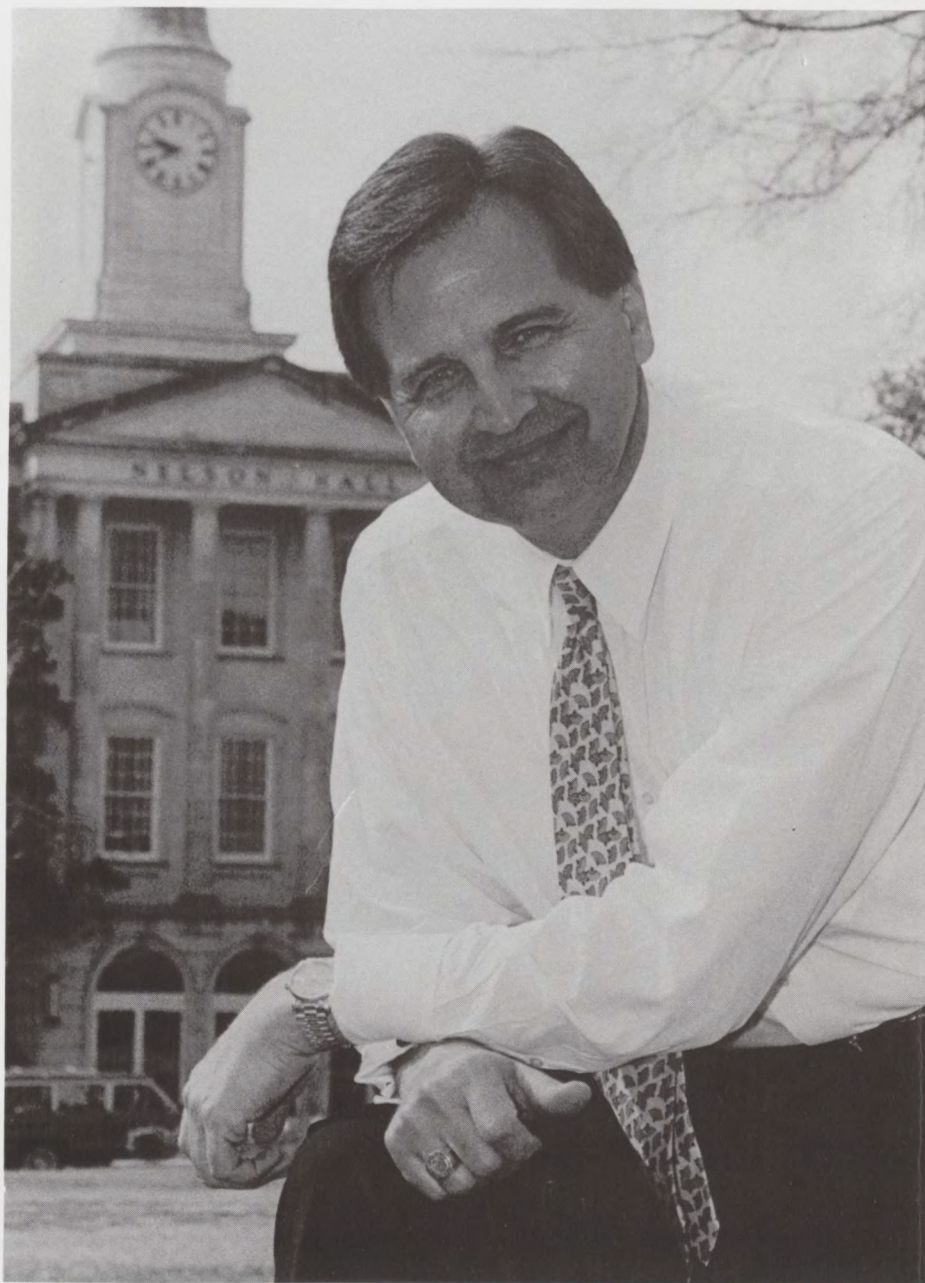

Dr. Howell Todd

July 15, 1994, marked the beginning of a new era at Mississippi College. It was Howell W. Todd's first day on campus as our president. Since that day more than two years ago, our lives and the collective life of Mississippi College have not been the same.

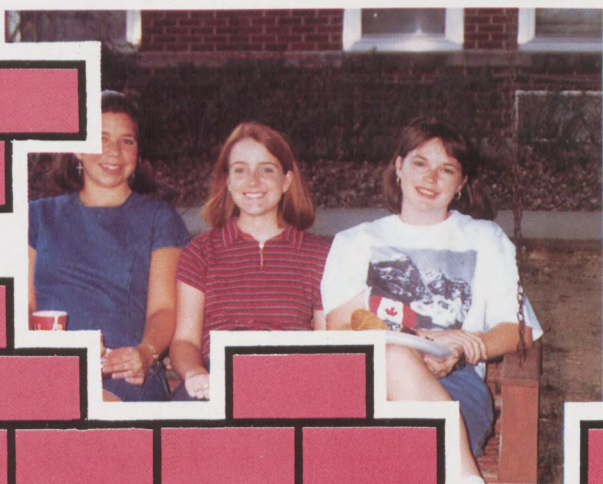

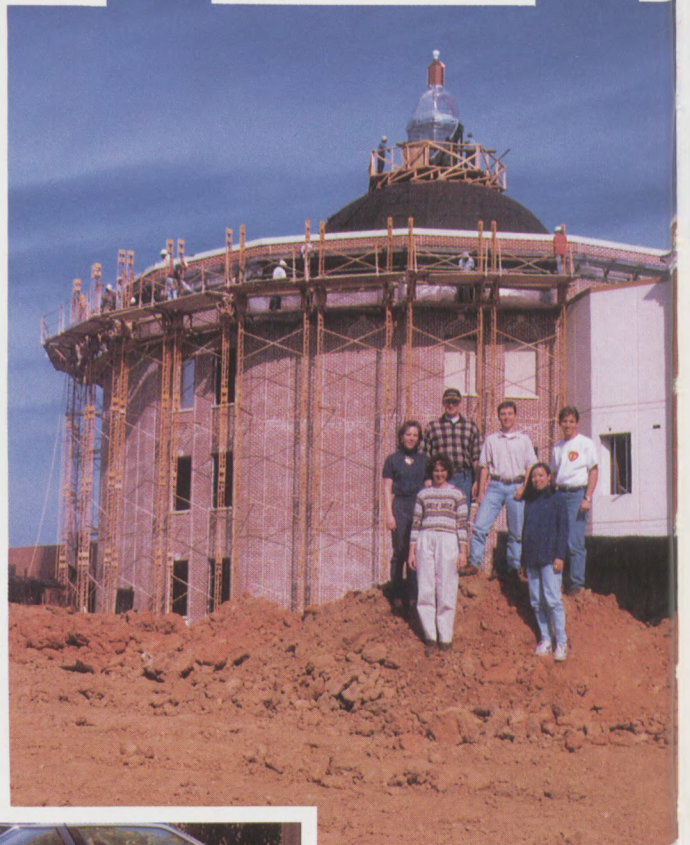

As both taskmaster and friend, Dr. Todd has systematically changed the face of this University. With the motto, "Where there is no vision, the people perish," Dr. Todd has challenged us to think beyond ourselves to a greater calling. Through Mississippi College he has made us a part of something meaningful, something with lasting significance. Under his leadership, the University has gone through monumental changes. Besides the tangible aspects of his vision, renovation and construction throughout the campus, his energy has created a chain reaction of renewed spirit among faculty, staff and students. This vibrance has manifested itself in increased activity on campus, higher enrollment and greater recognition of Mississippi College's academic excellence and continuing commitment to Christian ideals. He has affirmed time and again the distinctive mission of the University to integrate faith and learning. Mississippi College is alive and well and moving forward at an ever increasing speed.

What makes Dr. Todd special is the way he values students and his commitment to providing an environment conducive to their optimal development. His initial focus has been on providing state of the art living arrangements for residential students. He has set a standard in creating a student-friendly campus where all employees are encouraged to reach out to meet the needs of students. But perhaps the most important way in which he endears himself to students is his accessibility to them. He always has time for students and is committed to making them feel important. Their voice is heard and their needs are his priority. Since arriving at Mississippi College, Dr. Todd has been a constant and unwavering friend. This is what makes him truly special as an administrator and as a person.

For his commitment to the people and mission of Mississippi College, we dedicate the 1996-97 TRIBESMAN to a great friend and visionary leader, Dr. Howell W. Todd.

Orientation

"Smile!" Freshman girls look cute in their orientation shirts.

Brett Causey and Fred Morris grill up some burgers at the Orientation picnic.

Freshmen guys play a game of football at the reservoir.

Some freshmen prepare their meal for the night.

"Laying in the grass" ... Everyone has fun getting to know each other at the orientation cookout.

Relaxing at Dr. Todd's house, Herbert Thompson and Westly Cook kick back with a drink at the picnic.

"Making friends" . . . Heidi Cheatham, Patti Rone, and Faith Gilmore get to know each other during orientation.

Orientation is a fun and exciting time for incoming freshmen and transfer students. The Mafia did not find its way back to MC this year. Instead, freshmen were welcomed and not initiated. The Orientation Team planned special events including: cookouts, small-group parties, and prayer sessions. Freshman Lydia Lofton vocalizes her appreciation for the orientation activities, "I felt really excited about the activities they had planned for us. I felt like I was part of the group, the upper-classmen really made us feel welcomed." Orientation was a time of making memories, building friendships, and overall, was a great success.

Rush

Here comes the mice. Laguna Social Tribe cheers for the rushees.

Nenamoosha circles the rushees, chanting and throwing candy.

Swannanoa shows the rushees their spirit by yelling for their tribe.

Kissimee goes wild for the rushees!

Coke Parties are a great way to get to know the tribes.

The intertribal officers give the rushees advice on having a good rush.

Girls wait eagerly to attend Coke parties.

A scene from Laguna's Rush skit.

Nenamoosha definitely has spirit for their tribe.

Actives and Rushees mingle at the Coke Parties.

The weekend of September 13-14 was a closed weekend when each club personally invited each woman to their rush skit. Many actives declare that the skits were the turning point in their decision to rush the tribe they did. Kimberly Alexander, a Laguna sophomore, said, "It is, in a sense, the way that a tribe personalizes itself."

This year's actives saw the return of door signing. This rule says that a pledge must go and sign the door of every active of the tribe they wish to join. "I'm glad that this rule was brought back." Sara Crisler, Swannanoa president said. "This allows the girls to meet all of the members on a one-on-one basis and get to know the girls. This also allows the girls to see the actives as they really are."

The grand finale Squeal Night. Rushees waited in their rooms with the lights off until their new fellow tribe members came banging on their door. The women then ran, screaming and "squealing", into one of the most exciting and messy parts of rush — the mud pit.

— by Lauren Williford

Squeal Night

Squeal night has become a rush tradition at MC. September 24 on the soccer field pledges were thrown into a pit of mud as part of the initiation process. Many pledges fought to keep themselves from being thrown into the mud by pledges of the men's clubs. After not being able to have the traditional mud fun last year, everyone seemed to be playing in it. Later that evening people went back to their dorms to be hosed off and find their presents left by secret friends. Everyone enjoyed their mud bath immensely.

Mac McKeigney gives Danielle Harris a big MUD HUG.

Pledges take a time out of their mud bath to pose for a picture.

Yes, we had fun in the mud!

Actives and Pledges stop and pose for a picture after being covered with mud.

After being hosed off, the clean pledges and actives pause for a picture.

Kelly Shannon is whisked away to the mud.

ST actives share a silly moment with their pledges on Squeal Night.

It's a big mud party!

Pledges LOVE getting muddy on Squeal Night!

Follies '96

One of the most anticipated events of Homecoming happened Friday, November 1, 1996. Follies is the time when rushees and pledges of each tribe and service club follow the Homecoming theme in skits. The clubs were judged and awards were given to the top three skits. MC was "Invaded by Hollywood" through Nenamoosha's skit, which won first place; MC was "Invaded by Ms. Pacman" in Laguna's skit, which won second place, and MC was "Invaded by the Game of Life" in Swannanoa's skit which won third place. Swor Auditorium was packed to capacity with alumni, friends, and family to watch as MC was invaded by rush-ees and pledges.

Stephen Kennedy and Bradley Littlejohn led the festivities and provided entertainment between skits.

ST girls are invaded by the game of Life.

Marvin the Martian visits the Rotaract skit.

This Civitan skit was brought to you by the color red.

Jeff Crews in a skirt, for your viewing pleasure.

NT says, "Hurray for Hollywood."

Derek Pouncey captivates the audience.

In KT, the Clampets invade MC.

LT Pacmans invade MC.

Jeff Powell, the Samaritan, laughs at A Certain Man falling off his donkey.

The Follies emcees performed between skits.

Homecoming

Students and alumni invaded campus this year for Homecoming festivities. The theme was "Mississippi College Homecoming . . . Invaded!"

Homecoming week began Mon., Oct. 28 with several activities to get students pumped up and ready to cheer the Chocs. Monday was Spirit Day. Men's dorms were open Tuesday night. The gospel trio, Paid in Full, performed in Chapel Wednesday.

Thursday was Halloween; several events were planned. First, The Charlie Wicker and Chimneyville Jazz Band performed on the patio. Then, a campus-wide trick-or-treat began, with all dorms open for students to trick-or-treat, or just visit their friends. Costumed members of MC's faculty were posted throughout the dorms. A contest was held to see which student could first identify the disguised faculty correctly. Heather Herring won, unmasking faculty such as Dr. Snazell, Dr. Wagner, and Dean Washburn. Finally, a pep rally and bonfire were held. The cheerleaders and football players were on hand to promote school spirit. The annual cheering contest between the tribes and the clubs was a huge success; Nenamoosha Tribe came in first. Jeff Brooks won the costume contest. Follies were held Friday night.

The annual Homecoming parade was held Saturday. Various tribes, service clubs, and other student organizations created floats for the parade. The pledges to each social tribe were in charge of the floats. The marching band led the parade; the Homecoming Court also participated. BSU won the contest for the best float, with "Homecoming Invaded by Construction — God at Work."

Spotlight on MC was held in Swor Auditorium. The Homecoming Court was presented and the Naturals followed with their new performance. "Time Warp America." It was a musical journey through the decades, from the 1920's to the 1990's.

The Choctawes played Austin College that night; their 56-7 victory was exciting. After the game the Homecoming function was held at the Shady Oaks Country Club.

Mr. & Miss MC

Jason Branning

Mississippi College is a name that has, in many ways, changed meanings during my four years here. Campus life of academics mixed with social interaction is the foundation; a foundation built on the premises of God's sovereignty and man's ability to respond. In four years, I have caught glimpses of my response — ability. This university has taught me that I have an ability to respond to God with the fullness of my being. It is the surrendering to the following of the Author and Perfecter of our faith, Jesus Christ, that allows us to be transformed into pleasing, serving vessels to God and mankind.

A university has one center and focus from which all else is derived. Our center at MC, is Christ. While at MC, I have learned that following Christ's plan leads some students to pre-medicine, education, music, business, or numerous other majors in the university. For me, English has been that leading. The distinction of Mississippi College is the spiritual, Christ-centered, channeling of all the academical information, and extra-curricular and social endeavors. How we respond is left to our willingness.

My MC experience has been the most of many possibilities for my life. As most will associate, there have been days of intense gratitude, days of pain and wondering if there would be peace within again, social events, long hours of study, and many good teachers. There is a core group of teachers with which each MC student seems to connect. My core group of mentors have kindled my academic interest and reached into my life exposing and ordering the chaotic ramblings of my abilities. The order has come from one college's foundational focus. To me, MC has been a culturing environment academically and socially, but greater than these is the thread woven in between all of these materials, Jesus Christ. May we continue to seek God's purpose for our lives and for our university.

Beth Cofer

I came to Mississippi College for two reasons: the Christian atmosphere and an excellent education. However, I am leaving Mississippi College with more memories than I can count. Words will never be able to express the blessings God has given me over the last four years. Perhaps the biggest blessing is seeing how much Christ has taught me throughout the years. From holding offices in Nenamoosha, student recruiting, and Mortar Board to Homecoming Court and playing collegiate softball for three years, I learned valuable lessons from each activity.

But my happiest memories always seem to take place when my life is centered on Christ. This proves that as long as we stay focused on God, He will always grant us the best for our lives no matter where we are. Thank you Mississippi College for allowing God to use you in continuing to shape me into the image of Christ. You will always have a special place in my heart.

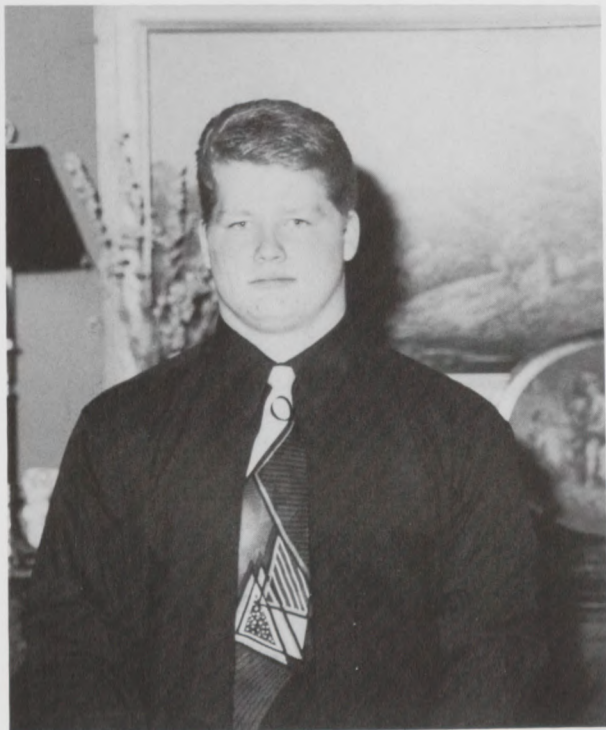

CLASSES

Freshmen

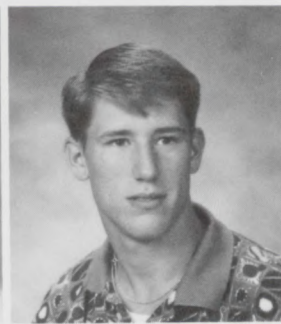

Before graduation, I had no idea where I was going to attend college. I came to MC for a tour and after that, I knew this was the place for me. One of the main reasons I chose MC was because of the Christian atmosphere. I knew I would be in an environment where I would be comfortable and able to grow as a Christian. I also knew I would be receiving a great education at MC. I had heard many great things said about MC's academic reputation. Lastly, I felt MC was where God wanted me to be. I'm glad I didn't do what I wanted to do, but listened to God and came here, because I would have missed out on so many great things.

I started praying where the Lord wanted me to go to college early in high school. When I visited Mississippi College, I knew that this was where the Lord wanted me. I felt so at home and so loved on campus, even though I had never been here before. I never felt such a peace about a decision as I did when I decided to come to MC. The Lord has richly blessed my life with Godly friends, and I have become a part of such wonderful groups like BSU and NT. The Lord continues to bless my life every day at MC, and I feel I have greatly grown in my Christian walk.

New York City was the vacation site for six MC freshmen during the Christmas holidays. Corrie Cutrer, Kim Yarbrough, Megan Carlyle, James Cheatham, Elizabeth Didlake, and Jolie Heglin took the streets to NYC in true tourist fashion. They visited such places as the Empire State Building, Chinatown, and the infamous Macy's. After driving all night, they fought their way through the crowd to appear on the Today Show. Since they are so proud of MC (where faith and learning are valued), they promoted our school with great pride. The above picture displays their Choctaw spirit as they stood outside NBC studios where the Today Show is filmed.

I chose to apply to Mississippi College because of the spiritual atmosphere, the wide variety of activities, and most importantly I felt comfortable here. Being raised in a spiritual home, I was surrounded with love, and my parents taught me the meanings of self-confidence, responsibility, and determination. By witnessing their faith in action, I learned that to be successful I must believe in myself, set goals, and put my trust in God. Therefore, when selecting a college I looked for somewhere that would challenge me academically and be a place where I could grow. After visiting MC I realized that I wanted to be surrounded by the kind of friendly people that I have met here. MC provides a variety of extracurricular activities, such as sports and clubs, outside the classroom and that was something else I looked into. The staff and student recruiters have been helpful to me by showing me what MC has to offer.

I came to MC because I believed that it was a strong academic college, and I thought it was the best place for me to go to school. I also found many friendships here that could last the rest of my life. Leadership scholarships also played a major role in my decision. I believe that I made a good choice, and it will benefit me in many ways in my time here at MC.

Attending MC is one of the best decisions I've ever made. Here I have encountered interesting people and built life-long relationships. The exciting thing is, I have two years to meet more people. MC also has plenty of stuff for me to get involved. It never fails that I have to choose between activities to be involved in every semester. The Collegian, Jazz band, acting, BSU; there is so much more, and I wish I could do it all. That brings me to something else I learned at MC: even though there is plenty to be involved in, there is always a class like Organic Chemistry that reminds me I have to study.

As an involved high school senior at a state FCA conference, I met some Mississippi College students I grew to respect and admire. Through the next year the opportunity arose to go to school here. I saw Mississippi College as a place where I could grow as a Christian and be involved in campus life with many people like myself. Now as a student-athlete my desire is to maintain the goals I have reached here and continually work toward building better relationships with my teammates and the other great friends I have made here at MC and in Clinton.

I had been praying about attending Mississippi College. When I was in Romania this past summer, God confirmed His will for my life. I met the Foreign Missions Director for Eastern Europe, Larry Cox. He and his wife are from Clinton, and are graduates of MC. I was able to talk to him and ask him any questions about MC. He gave me the names of people I should meet and get acquainted with (one was Dr. Robert Nettles). I went to Romania to share the love of Christ and received a lifetime call to Foreign Mission and a calling to attend MC. God is Awesome! Matthew 28:19-20

Mississippi College has a lot to offer. I am a junior Accounting major from West Point, MS. Coach G.T. Thames, an MC graduate, was my high school coach at Oak Hill Academy. he was also my dear friend. He encouraged me to come to MC and to audition for the "Naturals." This is my third year with the group and I couldn't be happier. Mississippi College has fulfilled my needs spiritually and academically. Although Coach Thames passed away this past year, I will always remember him as a mentor and confidant. He opened my eyes to Mississippi College and for that, I will always be thankful.

I believe that it was predestined for me to attend Mississippi College. Here is where I decided to give my life to God Almighty through his son Jesus Christ. The Christian atmosphere is the best thing about Mississippi College. The Lord has really blessed this school. The academic environment is so different the other school I attended before I came to MC. The professors here are great. They actually have devotions before classes start, they are very sincere when it comes to helping a student understand his or her lessons, and they are always available to the students no matter what time of day it is. Does that make going to school more enjoyable or what!?

I love how there are so many things to get involved with at MC. Being involved in different areas on campus really keeps life interesting. From being an active member of Civitan, to being a Kissimee beau, to being on Senate and an RA, to being one of those crazy "music people," I've learned so much about myself and life. I would encourage everyone to get involved. It's the best way to keep life from getting really monotonous.

Attending Mississippi College has always been a dream of mine. With the Lord's help, that dream was made possible this year. I first heard about MC through some former students. They had nothing but good things to say about the academics, BSU, dorm life, social tribes, sports, student/teacher ratio, and clubs. After hearing all these positive things, I knew Mississippi College was the place for me.

The people of MC make it a very special, unique college. I will always be grateful for professors like Dr. Hicks, who teach their students not what to think but how to think for themselves. I am also thankful for the wonderful friends I have met here. I know that these friendships will last a lifetime. This year has been difficult for many of us, but the Christian environment of MC has really helped us pull together to help each other through the hard times.

I am so glad that God brought me to MC. Until my sophomore year at Jones Jr. College, I wasn't sure where I was going to senior college. My parents met at MC, so I had always heard about MC and visited the campus. I was always very impressed with what I saw at MC. After I applied to Mississippi College and filled out all the papers, I knew this was where I was supposed to be. I'll never forget the call I got this past summer, and I was told that we didn't have to pay any money due to scholarships and financial aid. Right then and there, I knew that God wanted me at MC. He has blessed me beyond measure in my life and I know that He will continue to bless me while I am at Mississippi College.

When I think of my time at Mississippi College, one of the main things I think about is the COLLEGIAN. From this school-provided activity I got invaluable work experience, a lot of great friends and no sleep. I've complained many times about it, but the times working on the COLLEGIAN and hanging out with the staff has been some of the best times I've ever had. The COLLEGIAN has always been a constant in my life at MC. I was involved when I came as a freshman and I have been ever since. Now that I'm graduating I just have one thing to say. I've had a demon of a time!

Stuff: that's what comes to mind when I reminisce of all the swell happenings at MC during the last four years. Stuff like driving to New Orleans on a week night and returning just in time to catch 8 a.m. classes the following morning. Stuff like gaining 20 pounds during my first semester thanks to chicken sandwiches from the truck stop and Dairy Queen blizzards. Then there's the more significant stuff like the friends I've made at MC and the lessons in self-respect I've learned. I now know how to ignore other people to achieve true happiness, how to forgive and forget, and how to make the most of my dorm room sink. I've found the stuff that makes me happy, and I know that that "stuff" comes from within, not from other outside stuff. In all sincerity, life at MC has truly been an experience of self-exploration as well as formal education. As an English major, I've learned lots of new words. Words like "stuff." Everyone has their own stuff, I guess. That's what makes MC so great. Barry Hannah couldn't have said it better.

Some of the best things about MC (besides the people and small classes) are the many opportunities for travel and study abroad. Last summer I got to travel to Ireland and study its people, history and literature (I even got to sing a little). I can easily say it changed my life. I made a few friends, a lot of memories, and even a couple of good snapshots (the picture above this was taken in a 3,000 year old cairn in Galway).

My years at Mississippi College have been especially rewarding because of the sense of "family" that exists among the university's employees and the special rapport that professors and students enjoy. The university has played a significant role in my personal and professional development because of the variety of courses I teach, the academic freedom I am afforded in teaching, and the diversity of campus activities I have been a part of outside the classroom.

It happened on a late Friday night. A car went off the road near the intersection of I-20 and I-55. Four people died, all students at MC, and the effect on the student body was tremendous. Overwhelming. Anyone who was here that semester remembers.

In Memory of . . .

Lauren Williford

The memory of Lauren is one that I will cherish for the rest of my life. I consider it an awesome privilege to have had Lauren as a friend. Lauren was a loving, kind-hearted, and faithful friend, who genuinely cared about the feelings and thoughts of her friends. Lauren was always there to encourage and uplift her friends. Her love for life was evident in the way that she lived; she lived each day to the fullest by making the most of every situation. Lauren's life was a living testimony of the love that we should have for Christ, family, and friends. Her love for Christ was evident by the way she handled situations and the relationships she had with her friends. She allowed her love for Christ to guide her in every aspect of her life. Lauren's life exemplified the truth found in Proverbs 18:24; "A friend sticks closer than a brother." This verse best characterizes Lauren and the quality of her friendships. I truly feel that if Lauren could speak to us now, she would say, "Don't take anything for granted. I love you and don't worry, I'm happy." Lauren was precious. We love her and miss her dearly.

Jennifer Jones

I firmly believe that the span of a person's life should not be overshadowed by the instant of their death, and to that end I am going to spend a few moments now remembering the life of one of those students — the one whose loss I felt most deeply. Whenever I doubt what Mississippi College stands for (and I sometimes do), I think about her. Jennifer Leigh Jones exemplified the strength of character, the fine sense of class, and the deliberate, intelligent goodness that is characteristic of MC at its best. I remember how concerned she was about doing her job right. She was an RA, and she kept bringing me stories of various problems and situations she had to deal with, asking my opinion on whether she had handled them well. She would spend hours working on signs and posters and such for her hall; she loved her job, and took it seriously. I remember how excited she was when she changed her major to math. Until she got to college, she hated the subject; but, then she met a teacher who taught it well and made it work for her. All of a sudden, she "got" it. She worked hard at being good at it, as she did with everything she loved. Jennifer was a fantastic person for whom I learned a lot about happiness. She has been one of my biggest inspirations in life, and still is in many ways.

— Jonathan Carter

Dr. Joe Tuten

Dr. Joe H. Tuten died of heart failure January 11, 1997. He taught Introduction to the Old Testament in the Department of Christian Studies at Mississippi College from Fall 1988 until his death. A native of South Carolina, Dr. Tuten was a graduate of Furman University, Greenville, SC, and earned a doctorate of theology in Old Testament from New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary. Dr. Tuten retired from Calvary Baptist Church in Jackson, MS, in 1988 after serving as pastor for 27 years. His former pastorates include First Baptist Church, Biloxi, MS; Calvary Baptist Church, New Orleans, LA; and First Baptist Church, Belle Chasse, LA. Dr. Tuten has been a member of the Board of Directors and the Executive Committee of Southern Baptist Hospitals, a trustee of William Carey College, and Chairman of the Mississippi Baptist Convention's Education Commission, in addition to many other places of leadership in religious affairs. Survivors include his wife: Ruth; son: Joe Tuten, Jr.; daughter: Jan Tuten; and three grandsons.

Mike Powers

The first time I saw Mike Powers, he was late to class. After class, he followed me to my office to talk about a comment made in the first class meeting! I found out that Mike thought I had insulted the group as a whole! He was concerned enough to defend them against his new professor! He cared for people. Even though he lost many transfer hours to come to MC, Mike came to become a sport broadcaster. To him, the sacrifice was worth it. On the night he died, he had been the sidelines commentator at a CHS football game. He was doing what he loved best. Maybe Mike's short life taught all of us how to live; to care for people and to not let anything slip away without a challenge.

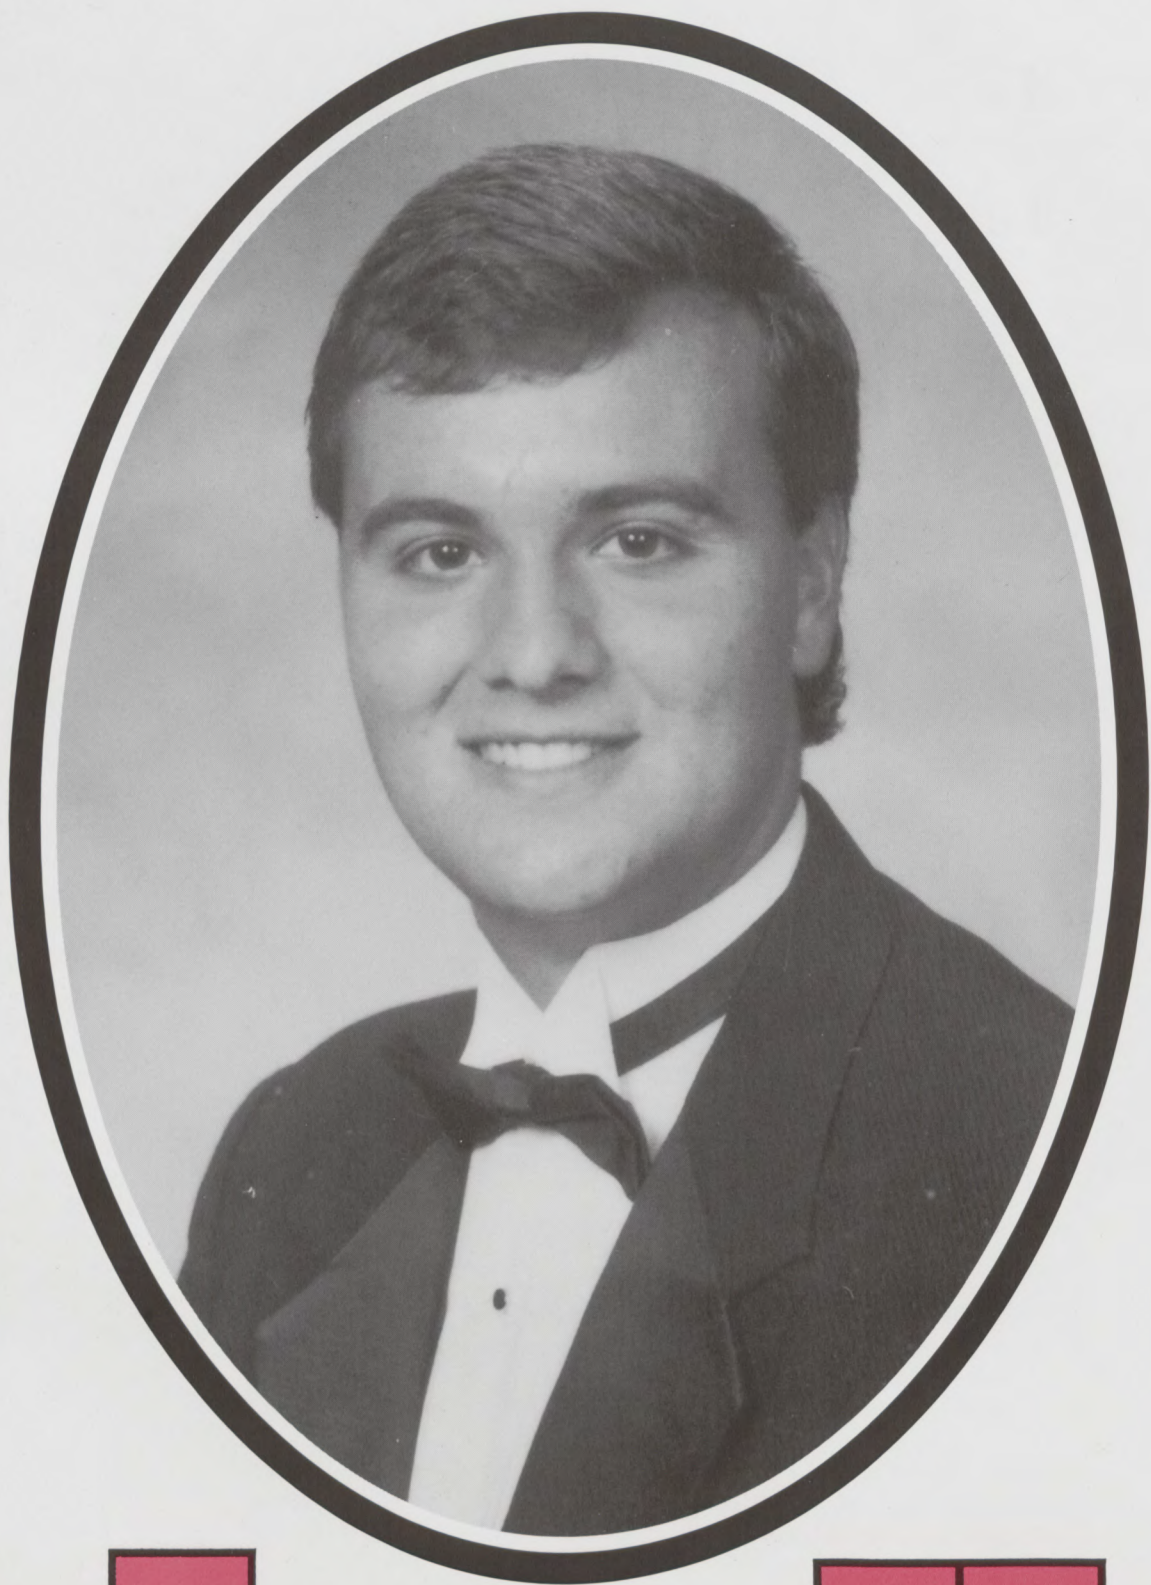

— Dr. Cliff Fortenberry

Brian Codd

I have known few students who wished to succeed more than anything else and who were willing to pay the price through diligent hard work. Brian Codd was the most focused student that I have come in contact with in several years. I could sum up Brian's desire in one short sentence. He wanted to become a sports broadcaster. He attended sports broadcasting camps, and through that, he learned about Mississippi College. If MC was where he could get a shot at his dream, then that was where he was going. But, on a rainy Friday night, Brian's dream ended. On a rain slickened curve, the car that he was riding in went out of control, over a railing onto a steep embankment and landed upside down on the concrete of another roadway. No one survived. Those of us left behind wonder why such awful things happen. We question why Brian was taken just when he was finally seeing his dream come alive. Brian Codd, in his quiet, unassuming, workmanlike manner left a legacy for all of us at MC, student, staff, faculty, and administration alike. He showed us that we can dare to dream, live a dream, and become what we dream.

THE MC Players presented the play, THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER, during the fall semester. The play revolved around a famous literary figure, Sheraton Whiteside, who was injured at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley during the Christmas holidays. He was confined to a wheelchair and had to stay at their house. Whiteside's secretary, Maggie Cutter, was also at the house. She met a young man, Bert Jefferson, and they fell in love. Throughout the play, Whiteside was determined not to lose his secretary and did all that he could to try to keep her from leaving. The play showcased a great variety of talent from many MC students. Cindi Stokes was the play's director.

Cast members include Jennifer Hentz, Emily Smith, Kacey Sumrall, Mary Ashley Angelo, Kelly Walker, Taynimh Watkins, Latoyer Abraham, Heidi Harper, Chris Weeks, Kristi Kennedy, Chelsea Coale, Jim Craft, Megyn Land, Sam Cobbins, Tim Dedeaux, Shelly Fairchild, Jerrod Partridge, Scott Ross, Matt Sale, Jeremy Blaisdale, John Tingle, Collin Johnson, Baine Craft, and Jamel Thompson.

The MC Opera Studio presented THE CHRISTMAS GIFT on November 21 and 22. THE CHRISTMAS GIFT was directed by Chandler C. Thompson and written by James S. Slater. Many MC students were involved in this production and showed their musical talent. The MC Chamber Choir, under the direction of James Richard Joiner, sang at both performances.

The MC Marching Choctaws began practicing for the upcoming football season when school started in August. The band opened their show with the ever famous "Fox Fanfare" and then played a rendition of "Star Wars." After "Star Wars" came the "Cantina" band, which could be seen close to the sidelines. "Cantina" was arranged by band member David Nieminen, as well as the arrangement of "Fox Fanfare." The band closed their show with the theme from "Return of the Jedi," which featured three familiar characters played by three MC students. Not only did the band show their school spirit by playing in the stands and during halftime at football games, but they also marched in the Homecoming parade and played during the presentation of the Homecoming court. The band was under the direction of Dr. John Hanberry and major Rick Sills.

Editor's Page

The annual has been very exciting and unusual this year. However — thanks to an incredible staff we pulled it off once again. I'd like to thank Josh for superb editing. Mac, you are a lifesaver with creative division pages. The staff couldn't be complete without Mr. Personality, Jeremy, who picked up all the slack. Jennifer and Christy worked their fingers to the bone with all the nitpicky chores of the annual, and I think Robin is lost somewhere in the darkroom. Ellen was excellent on the performing arts section, and Jason was helpful in any way that he could be. Alisa worked in every free moment she had. Wendy was a rock and kept the copy straight and perfect. Finally Clay did an excellent job on the sports section. Thanks a lot all of you!

Outside the staff there are so many more people to thank. A special thanks to Mr. Cook for all the computer help. Dr. Travers went above and beyond the call of duty to help the Tribesman staff. A special thanks to Dr. Coward for all her help. To all those who wrote personality profiles, a hearty round of applause! If I left anyone out I am truly sorry — believe me, I thanked God for all your help. Finally, I would like to thank God for his large part in the production of this publication. He simply worked miracles to get the annual together on time.

I enjoyed my years working with the yearbook. We have had some fun and hard times trying to give everyone the best annual that we could give them. We hope that everyone is pleased with what we have produced this year. We have tried to collect memorable moments from this year and give them to you in the best way we knew how. Finally — I just want to offer a special thanks to everyone who helped make MC a wonderful place in which to feel at home so that the memories that we recorded were able to happen.

Psalm 131

*My heart is not proud, O Lord, my eyes are not haughty;
I do not concern myself with great matters
or things too wonderful for me.
But I have stilled and quieted my soul;
like a weaned child with its mother,
like a weaned child is my soul within me.*

O Israel, put your hope in the Lord both now and forevermore.

Thanks to you all for the pleasure of creating this year's annual.
